

Dining Downtown with DISTANCE

Coronavirus is most easily transmitted indoors when people are in close proximity to one another. Offering outdoor solutions addresses the public's concerns about safety.

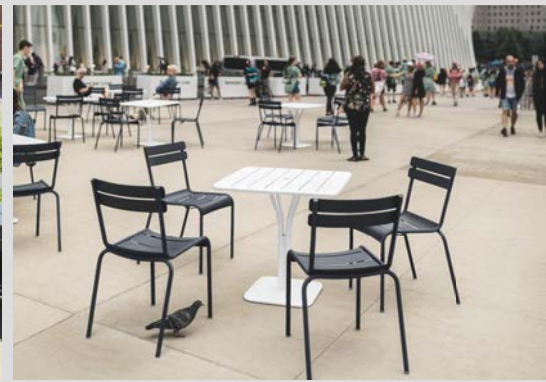

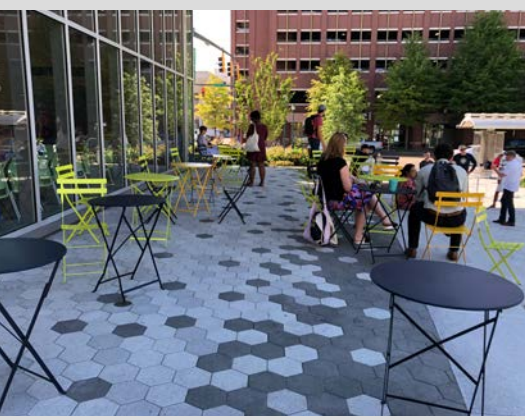

Fermob can provide outdoor seating for socializing & dining to help solve the government's restrictions on indoor restaurant density. Since 1889, Fermob has provided tables and chairs for flexible outdoor dining.

- Folding metal tables for easy nightly storage
- Folding or stacking chairs for nightly storage
- Movable tables and chairs in variety of colors
- Fermob's variety of colors allows each retail establishment their own identity while still allowing a cohesive aesthetic in your district.

As downtown districts slowly reopen to the public, their tenants are looking for helpful ways to offer safe, socially distant seating for their restaurants and other retail establishments.

New areas of consideration are offering seating on sidewalks, parking lots, creating parklets and pop-up patios, and closing streets to make way for pedestrian corridors.

As people find alternatives to public transportation, automobile traffic will increase. It will be incumbent on cities to preserve their downtown by reclaiming traditional streets for the people, which will reduce noise and make downtown desirable again.
